PUBLIC OPINION!

CRYSTAL LUNCH ROOM! as patrons tell, none in Washington can exceed. Rich Soups, Joints, Entrees, here we view, varied and tasteful, on the Men. Yielding to no one, we obtain. Cooking such as we seek in vain. Splendid Coffee and delicious Tea, at 517 Ninth Street we. The Pastry, Pies and Sandwiches, too, are unsurpassed, the city through. And the exquisite, pure Ice Cream, ladies declare it stands supreme. Look in Day or Night! all must confess, the Crystal prices command success.

Dana White Funeral Held. Funeral services for Dana White, who died Wednesday at his home in Riverdale, Md., were held yesterday at the home. Rev. A. R. Hand, of the Riverside Presbyterian Church, conducted the services. Interment will be in St. Paul, Minn., to which city the body was shipped, following the funeral services. Mr. White had been in the Postoffice Department as a clerk since 1877. He was a civil war veteran, and was born in Brantree, Vt. He is survived by four children.

Special Squad Will Take Care Of Men Who Imbibe Too Freely

Sons of Veterans Will Escort Incapacitated Old Soldiers to Their Lodgings—More Than 300 Members of Public Order Committee Sworn In.

If any veterans of the civil war imbibe too freely of intoxicants during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, they will not be hauled off to the police station like ordinary residents of the National Capital, but will be assisted to their lodgings places by special squads.

A special detail of sixty men, all sworn in with full police power, will serve as the incapacitated veterans' friendly squad. These men are all members of the Sons of Veterans. They will wear a special badge and insignia on the lapel of their coat, and will patrol the downtown sections in search of the veterans needing aid.

Announcement of this unique feature was made last night by Maj. Raymond W. Pullman, superintendent of police and chairman of the committee on public order, at a final meeting at the New Willard.

Many of the visiting veterans will not be aware of the fact that Washington has very strict excise laws and that it is an offense here to become intoxicated, declared Maj. Pullman. "We do not want to be harsh to these aged soldiers. We want to treat them with all the consideration possible. The station houses will be overcrowded and will not be suitable places for them to sober up in. The Sons of Veterans kindly have offered their services to assist in steering any intoxicated veterans home. We shall see to it that no bona fide tagged veteran found in an intoxicated condition is arrested."

More than 300 members of the public order committee last night were sworn in as special police officers by Chief Clerk Hesse, of the police department. Each was presented with a badge, a commission, a printed pamphlet of instructions, a list of don'ts for visitors, and a copy of the special police regulations.

Fire Chief Frank J. Wagner reported that fire extinguishers have been placed on all the grandstands and that Camp Emery has been fully protected. Asa E. Phillips, head of the subcommittee on roping off the route of the parade, stated that preparations had been completed. Chairman D. S. Carl, of the subcommittee on railways, reported that on Wednesday, the day of the parade, street cars along Pennsylvania avenue will be stopped at 9:30 o'clock and cars crossing the Avenue will be stopped at 9:30.

Richard B. Watrous, of the subcommittee on hotels and vehicles, explained that Pennsylvania avenue had been divided into four or five districts for the convenience of his committee members. Odell S. Smith, chairman of the subcommittee on stands, said the members of his committee would give aid to women and children and aged persons on the stands. Charles W. Darr, of the subcommittee on stations, stated members had been assigned to Union Station, the station at Seventh street and Maryland avenue southwest, Fourteenth street and New York avenue, Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, and the steamboat wharves. There will be local and out-of-town detectives stationed at all of these places. Maj. Ahern, chairman of the subcommittee on obstructions, explained that the members of his subcommittee will start work at 8:30 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

W. F. Guo, chairman of the citizens' committee, said that all arrangements have been completed in detail for the encampment. Maj. Pullman today will visit several of the police stations in the downtown section of the city to urge the policemen to be as courteous and polite and considerate as possible in dealing with visitors.

Pullman Tells How to Foil Crooks During G. A. R. Encampment Week

With a view to minimizing the number of thefts, robberies, housebreakings, and accidents during the G. A. R. encampment, Maj. Raymond W. Pullman, superintendent of police and chairman of the committee on public order, has issued the following list of don'ts for the benefit of visitors and residents:

Do not leave windows, doors or back gates unlocked while you are away from your house.

Do not go away from your home to view the parade without leaving a caretaker or member of the family to protect your property.

Do not forget the number, street and section where you reside.

Visitors should learn all about their surroundings, and keep a memorandum of their Washington address on a card in their pockets.

Do not expose your money in public unnecessarily or carry your wallet in the hip pocket. Four-fifths of all pick-pocket jobs are made easy because a man's hip pocket is picked while getting on the car or in a crowd.

Beware of pickpockets and flimflammers of all kinds, who may always be expected to come to a city when large crowds assemble.

Do not let yourself be jostled in a crowd.

Do not be careless with your belongings. Hold firmly to handbags, and see that they are securely fastened.

Remember that there is a uniform hack rate in Washington, and if in doubt examine the rate card required by the regulations to be in every public hack in plain view.

Do not trust your money to an unknown person who offers delivery for you.

Do not pay for goods on delivery for yourself or others, or pay express charges on a package until you are satisfied the contents were ordered by you, or you have verified the amount of the express charge.

Do not admit to your home telephone, water, or sanitary inspectors who call unless they give proper credentials and assistance.

Do not permit implicit faith in what strangers tell you. The most polite informant may be the most adroit and skilled impostor.

Do not send money by strangers to friend or relative reported as having been taken suddenly ill or fallen into the hands of the police without first making a full and personal investigation.

Do not accept checks from strangers in payment for board and rooms or goods without first investigating and ascertaining that the check is "good."

Do not wear valuable jewelry while in the reviewing the parade or other celebration.

Do not go sightseeing with strangers or unauthorized guides.

Do not allow who says he is a guide should show you his authority from police department. A mere badge with the word "guide" printed on it will not do.

Do not match coins, especially with strangers, or be taken in by a "film flamm" game of any kind.

Do not make your home a safe deposit vault for silverware and jewelry while you are away.

Do not leave your belongings to untested employees; the temptation might prove too great.

Do not take the babies and small children to see the sights or the parade, they are apt to be hurt in the crowd.

Do not overindulge in the use of intoxicants during encampment week; to do so will cost you $10.

Beware of ticket speculators. Buy G. A. R. grandstand tickets at the stand booths, because tickets bought from speculators on the streets may be fraudulent.

Do not forget to co-operate with the police in every way possible in maintaining order and preventing crime.

Do not throw fruit skins, waste paper or rubbish of any kind in the streets. Receptacles for waste paper and rubbish may be found in all sections of the downtown district. Let us all work during encampment week, when many thousands of people will be on the streets at all times.

Citizens can help the police most by keeping in mind the working methods of criminals, and thus to take intelligent preventive measures.

A large percentage of the crimes committed in Washington and other cities are preventable, if citizens are careful and do not make it easy for the criminal to do his work.

Do not forget to read thoroughly the special regulations authorized by Congress for the G. A. R. encampment week. To know these well may save you considerable trouble.

G. A. R. men who may desire the assistance of the Sons of Veterans should call up the headquarters of the organization, which is Main 767.

MEMORIAL SERVICES AT PEACE CROSS TODAY

Initial Exercises Incident to Encampment Will Begin This Afternoon.

The initial exercises incident to the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock, when memorial services will be conducted at the peace cross at Mount St. Alban.

Veterans of the civil war, members of a score or more of patriotic societies and hundreds of others will constitute the vast congregation that is expected to witness the exercises. Right Rev. Alfred Harding, bishop of Washington, will be in charge, and the sermon will be by Right Rev. T. F. Davies, bishop of Western Massachusetts. The Cathedral Choir, accompanied by the Marine Band, will furnish the music.

Special services commemorating the encampment will be held in virtually all the churches either this morning or tonight. Nearly every pastor will preach at least one sermon touching upon the encampment.

Camp Emery to Be Dedicated. The encampment proper will commence tomorrow morning with the dedication of Camp Matthew G. Emery, G. A. R. headquarters, located in the old Census Bureau building at First and B streets northwest.

Final arrangements for the various phases of the encampment yesterday were made by the numerous committees assigned to the task of working out particular details.

An immense banner in duplicate of the one used in the city five years ago is to be stretched across Fifteenth street from the Treasury to the opposite buildings bearing Lincoln's words in tribute to the soldiers of the civil war. The banner is being erected under the direction of the Legion of Loyal Women.

Survivors of the seven regiments of clerks and other Federal employees who were ordered out by President Lincoln for the defense of the National Capital during the civil war probably will be assigned a position in the big parade on Wednesday. These regiments were known as the War Department Rifles, First and Second regiments, Quartermaster's Volunteers, Treasury Department Guards, and Navy Department Guards, including the navy yard men, and the Government Printing Office guards.

A big delegation of the Sons of Veterans was at Union Station last night to welcome Charles F. Sherman, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., national commander-in-chief of the body, who was escorted to headquarters at the Shoreham Hotel. Sons of Veterans are not expected to be here in great numbers until tomorrow.

Recitals Every Evening. Organ recitals of popular music are to be given every evening of the encampment, commencing tonight at 8:15 o'clock in First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest. Each program will be concluded with "The Storm," a composition specially prepared to demonstrate the possibilities of the organ. It describes a day in a military camp, with bugle calls, military marches, patriotic songs, and a thunderstorm.

More than 90 veterans from Baltimore and nearby points in Maryland are expected to march in the parade on Wednesday. Joseph Brooks, commander of the Department of Maryland, and his staff will arrive here tomorrow. Most of the Maryland veterans will come to the city on Tuesday.

Confederate veterans as well as Union veterans in the employ of the Federal government are to be granted leave for the encampment, according to announcement made yesterday by President Wilson. The order issued recently granted leave to "veterans of the civil war," and President Wilson said this includes Southerners as well as Northerners.

Greetings of the United Spanish War Veterans will be formally conveyed to Commander-in-chief Palmer, of the G. A. R., by a specially appointed delegation of Washingtonians at the session of the convention on Thursday at Camp Emery.

Ernest L. Thurston, superintendent of schools, yesterday issued orders for the closing of the public schools on Wednesday for the parade.

MAY BUY MONTAGUE SUB.

Daniels Would Recommend Purchase on Its Approval.

Within the next three months the Navy Department will test the new submarine invented by Capt. H. E. Montague, of Binghamton, N. Y., and if the boat comes up to the expectations of its inventor Secretary Daniels has promised to recommend an appropriation of $30,000 for its purchase.

Capt. Montague has been offered more than $500,000 for the invention, he says, and has been negotiating with other governments who want to buy his patent rights, but thus far he has refused to sell these.

Cardinal Gibbons Here Today. Cardinal Gibbons will assist at the services this morning in St. Stephen's Catholic Church, Twenty-fifth street and Pennsylvania avenue. The sermon will be delivered by Monsignor Russell, of St. Patrick's Church; Father Mackin, of St. Paul's; will be the deacon, and Father Wheeler, of the Church of the Holy Comforter, subdeacon. Bishop Currier will be present to assist in the ceremonies.

The Holy Name Society of St. Stephen's Church will act as escort to the officials.

FACES TERM IN PRISON.

Ghioffri Sent Dynamite Across Continent Through Mails.

Orders to prosecute Luigi Ghioffri, of Napa Junction, Cal., who shipped eight sticks of dynamite through the mails, were sent out yesterday by the Postoffice Department. He will be prosecuted under the Federal statute providing a maximum imprisonment of ten years and a fine of $5,000 for sending explosives in the mails.

Postal authorities here expressed surprise that the dynamite was not set off on its long journey across the continent. It passed through many hands on its way to New York, where it was discovered, and officials say the heavy wrapping of newspapers alone must have protected it. The package was addressed to a man in Ceva, Italy.

ROB WOMAN OF PURSE.

Burglars Steal Food, Clothes, Money and Watches.

Miss Edith Beckett, 29½ Eighteenth street northwest, was robbed of a purse last night while in a Ninth street theater. Other robberies were: Dressed gown, valued at $5, from S. Kartlin, 321 Tenth street northwest. Provisions, valued at $6, from N. N. Shea, 622 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. The vacant houses at 1214 Linden street northeast and 28 Grant place northwest were stripped of their plumbing fixtures.

Ray Swan, a private at Washington Barracks, was robbed of a suit of clothes.

Harry C. McIntuff, employed in the Treasury Building, reported the theft of a watch from his office.

Mrs. L. I. Beck, 23 Maryland avenue northeast, told of the theft of a watch from her room.
